

MCCONACHIE STEDMAN PRIVACY POLICY

“AT MCCONACHIE STEDMAN WE RECOGNISE THAT OUR CLIENTS’ PRIVACY IS IMPORTANT”.

We have created this Privacy Policy in order to demonstrate our commitment to our clients’ privacy in accordance with the Australian Privacy Principles (APPs) as defined in the Privacy Amendment (Enhancing Privacy Protection) Act 2012.

If McConachie Stedman are required by law to release information about our clients or their organisation they must fully co-operate as permitted under the Privacy Amendment Act. We will advise the client where any information is provided under these conditions.

In this Privacy Policy, ‘we’, ‘us’ and ‘our’ mean the entities carrying on the business under McConachie Stedman Pty Ltd (ACN 600 130 845). This includes the entities, McConachie Stedman Audit and Assurance Pty Ltd (ACN 600 384 512) and McConachie Stedman Financial Planning Pty Ltd (as trustee for Duggan Street Management Trust) (ABN: 27 334 897 940).

WHAT IS PERSONAL AND SENSITIVE INFORMATION?

Personal information is any information or opinion about you which identifies you or that could reasonably identify you. This could include information such as your name, contact details or date of birth.

Sensitive information is any information or opinion about you which is health information or which relates to your racial or ethnic origin, political opinion, religious and/or philosophical beliefs, sexual preferences or practices, or criminal record.

COLLECTION OF PERSONAL AND SENSITIVE INFORMATION

Our main purpose for collecting personal and sensitive information is to ensure we provide our clients with quality information and advice within our range of services including:

- accounting and taxation;
- advanced business services;
- self-managed superannuation funds;
- audit solutions;
- management accounting;
- bookkeeping;
- financial planning;
- insurance, and
- human resources support.

McConachie Stedman is subject to certain legislative and regulatory requirements that make it necessary for us to obtain and hold detailed information that personally identifies our clients and/or contains sensitive information about them.

Our ability to provide our quality services is dependent on us obtaining certain personal and/or sensitive information, such as:

- Personal or company name
- Address and contact details
- Date of birth
- Marital status
- Employment details
- Tax File Number, ABN and Registered Business Number
- Bank account/credit card details
- Current financial/accounting information including details of your assets and liabilities
- Income, expenditure, etc.
- Information about your family structure
- Commitments and Centrelink eligibility
- Any other information including your medical history and reports required for the purposes of risk insurance.

Generally we will collect personal and sensitive information from our clients directly, via face to face, phone, email and fax, although sometimes it may be necessary to request information from a third party. For example, we may collect information from their personal representative or a publicly available record, amongst other sources. We may also collect personal and sensitive information from the use of our websites and information provided to us through the registration process on our website.

USE OF PERSONAL AND SENSITIVE INFORMATION

The personal information which is provided to McConachie Stedman is used for a number of purposes including:

- to provide quality services in a professional and efficient manner
- to respond to requests

- to maintain contact with our clients and business associates
- to keep our clients and other contacts informed of our range of services, current changes in the industry and to notify of upcoming events and seminars
- for administrative purposes
- for recruitment purposes
- for the engagement of service providers, contractors or suppliers relating to the operation of our business
- for other business related purposes.

McConachie Stedman may also use the personal information provided for the purpose of marketing their services. If clients do not wish to receive any marketing material from us, they can use the 'unsubscribe' function on any of our electronic communications or contact our Privacy Officer using the details below.

DATA QUALITY

Pursuant to the Corporations Act and Accounting Standards (AASB) we are required to collect sufficient information to ensure the services we provide and the advice we give is accurate and valuable. If clients elect not to provide us with the personal information needed, we will not be able to provide them with the quality of service they deserve.

DISCLOSURE OF PERSONAL AND SENSITIVE INFORMATION

McConachie Stedman will not release any personal information, except as required by law and as set out in this Privacy Policy, to any third party, without the consent of our clients.

If McConachie Stedman releases personal information to a third party, we will do so in accordance with the purpose for which the personal information was collected, or a related purpose.

We may use the information collected from clients for the purpose of referring them to another financial service provider if required, and with their permission. The types of third parties we may disclose information to might include:

- experts or third parties contracted as part of an engagement
- our service providers
- our professional advisors
- your financial institution (if requested).

We will not disclose personal and/or sensitive information to third parties for the purpose of allowing them to distribute marketing material to clients.

RESPONDING TO NON-COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS AND REGULATIONS

We may, as part of our responsibilities as a Member in Public Practice, take steps and actions as set out in Section 225 of the Code, "Responding to Non-Compliance with Laws and Regulations". These include but are not limited to the following:

- During the course of our engagement, if we identify or suspect that non-compliance with laws or regulations has occurred or may occur, which may have direct effect on material amounts or disclosures in the financial statements or compliance with which may be fundamental to the operating aspects of your business, to the ability to continue business or to avoid material penalty, we will discuss the matter with the appropriate level of management, those charged with governance or the internal auditor, as appropriate, to enable you to rectify, remediate or mitigate the consequences of the identified or suspected non-compliance or deter the commission of the non-compliance where it has not yet occurred.
- We will consider whether to communicate the non-compliance or suspected non-compliance with an external auditor, unless prohibited by law or regulation.

- We will also consider, based on materiality and /or significance of the matter, whether further action is needed in the public interest. Further action may include disclosing the matter to an appropriate authority even when there is no legal or regulatory requirement to do so or withdrawing from the engagement and the professional relationship where permitted by law or regulation.

Where appropriate we will inform you of our intention to disclose the matter to an appropriate authority before disclosing the matter. However, if we have reason to believe that the actual or intended conduct would constitute an imminent breach of a law or regulation that would cause substantial harm to investors, creditors, employees or the general public, we may immediately disclose the matter to an appropriate authority in order to prevent or mitigate the consequences of such imminent breach of law or regulation.

SECURITY AND RETENTION OF PERSONAL AND SENSITIVE INFORMATION

McConachie Stedman will take reasonable steps to keep any personal information that we hold secure, and protect it from misuse, interference, loss and unauthorised access, modification or disclosure.

The security measures taken include:

- controlled access to the premises
- restriction of access with computer passwords which are changed on a regular basis
- firewalls to protect electronic information
- virus protection software which is updated regularly
- secure client portal
- computer back-up at a datacentre in Australia
- computer back-up tapes stored securely away from the premises
- confidentiality contracts with all staff and contractors

The personal and/or sensitive information provided to us will be retained only for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes for which the information was collected, as required by law or in accordance with our documentation retention policies.

TRANSBORDER DATA FLOWS

Given the current global economy and the ability for information to be shared across borders, McConachie Stedman is taking the following reasonable steps to try and ensure data security;

- No financial statements or income tax returns will be sent as email attachments unless the individual has requested this in writing.
- All of these documents will be uploaded to the individual's secure client portal and a login provided to the intended recipient. Please note that the client portal is stored at a data centre in Australia.
- It is very unlikely that we will disclose your personal or sensitive information to overseas recipients. If we transfer your personal and/or sensitive information outside of Australia, we will comply with requirements of the Act that relate to trans-border data flows. While we will not directly disclose your personal and/or sensitive information to overseas recipients, without your consent, the entities to which we may disclose personal and/or sensitive information may do so. We are unable to say what countries, if any, those recipients are likely to be located in.

ACCESS OR CORRECTION OF PERSONAL INFORMATION HELD

McConachie Stedman will allow access to a client's own personal or sensitive information at any time by making contact with their accountant or by contacting our Privacy Officer. This is subject to some limited exceptions permitted or required by law. Our clients also have the right to request that we adhere to any corrections or updates to the information that is provided to us.

McConachie Stedman may charge the reasonable costs of providing our clients with access to their personal information if requested.

All personal and sensitive information we no longer require will be destroyed or permanently de-identified, however information will be retained for as long as the law requires.

PRIVACY ON OUR WEBSITE

In general, it is not a requirement to provide McConachie Stedman with any personal information when visiting our website. However, if clients apply to receive information, we may require them to provide certain personal information.

COOKIES

Cookies are pieces of data stored by a web browser on a computer's hard disk. Cookies identify the computer only – they do not personally identify individuals.

We may use cookies to track the use of our website, and to compile statistics on visits to the site. When the website is visited a cookie may be placed on the computer.
